DESIGNATE RURAL MAIL BOX IMPROVEMENT WEEK

The Post Office Department has designated the first week in May as Rural Mail Box Improvement Week.

Rural mail boxes which are not properly erected or which are not in good, serviceable condition retard the delivery of mail and expose it to damage from the elements.

It is the desire of the Department to encourage patrons of the rural delivery service to provide suitable receptacles and to erect them in such manner that they will be readily accessible to the carrier and present a neat appearance.

It is especially desirable that the boxes be maintained in a condition that will assure proper protection to mail placed therein, that the names of box owners be inscribed on the sides of the boxes visible to the carrier as he approaches them, and that the boxes and their supports be kept painted.

Patrons who have unapproved boxes of top-opening, revolving door or other type are not required to discard them provided the boxes have been in use by the present owners for several years and are maintained in good serviceable condition. Any boxes not of present standard type which are of such design that they cannot be properly served by the carrier from his vehicle or are in such condition as not to protect the mail should be replaced with boxes of the approved types. Boxes, regardless of type, should, of course, be of such design and such condition that there will be no likelihood of the carrier's being injured when serving them.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Wilson and two children of Bethel were visiting friends in town Sunday.

Mrs. Marah Webster of Farmington came Wednesday to spend the remainder of the week with her sister, Mrs. S. S. Greenleaf.

G. A. BASEBALL DATES START NEXT WEEK

Coach George Bowhay's Class "M" Champions have been working in the Field House for the past three weeks preparing for the following schedule:

April
Wednesday, 26—at Gorham
Saturday, 29—at South Paris

May
Tuesday, 2—(open)
Friday, 5—at Norway
Tuesday, 9—Fryeburg at Bethel.

Saturday, 13—Paris at Bethel
Friday, 19—Mexico at Bethel
Saturday, 20—Norway at Bethel
Tuesday, 23—at Fryeburg
Saturday, 27—at Mexico
Tuesday, 30—(open)

June
Saturday, 3—(open)
Tuesday, 6—Gorham at Bethel.
Saturday, 10—Alumni

There is still some doubt as to whether the April 26 game can be played at Gorham, where the Ice Skating rink has slowed up the conditioning of the field. The Gould diamond is still partially covered with snow and it will be some time yet before it can be used.

Coach Bowhay has a number of veterans from last year's State Champs. He has three outfielders in Hamilton, Rolfe, and Smith, also veterans Kendall at second and Marshall at short. Clint Mason pitched in practically every regularly scheduled game, while not holding down third base. This year he will have to do most of the hurling for the full nine innings.

Two veteran catchers are back in the persons of Durgin and Boyd. One of these may be converted into a third baseman.

Only two regulars were lost to the squad but they were both outstanding performers. Pitcher Dick Rolfe, who won all the championship play-offs is now pitching in the South on a minor league team. First baseman Bud Bennett, hard hitting clean-up man, is going to be hard to replace this year.

Several men up from the J. Vs. are showing promise also. Paul Bartlett and Elmer Bean show ability at the plate and may take over outfield positions in spite of veterans. Bob Gorman and Henri Agence are competing for the first base position while pitcher Dave Jordan is showing good form on the mound. Ray Chase, another underdog, is making a spirited bid for the hot corner assignment.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS
Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual—National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare

In the long-range view, the most complex domestic issue that faces this country may be old age pensions.

Some of the labor organizations are now placing their principal emphasis on pensions as, for example, the coal and automobile unions. More will do so in the future. The general idea is to obtain retirement pensions of $100 monthly, social security benefits included.

However, regardless of what pension contracts are reached between union and industry, many authorities consider this an ineffectual solution of the problem. In most industry, there is a large turnover of labor—a man may work for a motor concern for a few months or a few years, then move on to some other occupation. The size of the labor force varies from season to season, and for other reasons sometimes very sharply. It is certainly unlikely that any system would be satisfactory which covered only unionized labor in the larger industries, and left out the rest.

That is why there is much sentiment in favor of government old age pensions, which would cover everyone, regardless of where or how long they worked, and whether they belonged to unions or not. Some argue that an inclusive and more liberal method of caring for the aged could be imposed upon the present social security system. But that is much easier said than done. At present the Federal social security benefits to the elderly average less than $30 a month—a far cry from $100, and a great many old people are not covered at all. Current proposals for raising the payment would still leave the average far short of $100. Social security—continued on page eight

SAFETY IS SOLE PURPOSE OF MAINE VEHICLE INSPECTION

With Maine's auto fatality rate already totaling 31 so far this year, Sgt. John deWinter, Director of the Maine State Police Division of Traffic and Safety, urges motorists to demand a square inspection of their motor vehicles this month.

"Safety is the single purpose of Maine's semi-annual motor vehicle inspection—safety for the state's pedestrians and safety for our thousands of motorists," deWinter observed.

He added that "when motorists take their car or truck to be inspected this month, they should demand a thorough inspection and be assured by a competent mechanic that their brakes, horn, lights, tires, running gear and other safety devices are in safe, efficient operating condition."

"If you do not get such a thorough inspection, you are being defrauded, and if you conspire to have a slipshod inspection made of your car you are only fooling yourself and playing fast and loose with your own safety, as well as with that of others," deWinter warns.

The all-time record for the number of chest x-rays taken during farm and home week at the University of Maine was established in 1950 when 2,266 men and women took advantage of this opportunity.

well as for applying wax to floors and furniture.

Old dish towels and napkins are excellent for securing purposes as well as for polishing metals.

Use cheesecloth, cellulose sponges or paper toweling for cleaning mirrors, windows or kitchen and bathroom equipment.

THE SHORT END

Just as it is that keeps industry alive and makes possible its tremendous contributions to everyone in the nation. When a man makes his money in some undertaking he does so in the hope of receiving a return. But the amount of profit that industry earns is far smaller than is generally realized.

As a case in point, here are some figures taken from the 1949 annual report of a corporation dealing in dairy products.

It had a total income of more than $100,000,000, of which the largest part was spent for milk and other raw materials, and necessary supplies and services.

It paid wages and salaries of nearly $152,000,000, and taxes totaling a dairy products.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

When spring arrives, there are hundreds of new picture possibilities for you camera fans.

Pictures for Spring

CAMERA fans, have you noticed that touch of spring in the air? You know, I believe snapshooters enjoy the arrival of this new season even more than other folks. It means that the great outdoors again becomes a theater of operations for picture-taking activities of many kinds.

First of all, the longer daylight hours mean that the snapshooting day is much longer than during the short, dark days of winter. And more of the days are sunny and clear.

Nature improves the scenery, too, by retouching the whole landscape in bright, fresh colors for the new season. She adds the bright greens to the trees and later adds the brilliant and fragrant blossoms of the trees and shrubs. And since everything does look so attractive, it is an excellent time to try a new landscape picture.

Of course, other things happen, too. People who have been pretty much indoors during the cold weather take to the outdoors just as soon as they can. Gardeners begin putting out in the "back forty," golfers begin spattering on the back nine, and the youngsters take to the baseball diamond with great gusto. This is wonderful for you because there are pictures galore in these ambitious new activities of spring.

One of the first things that you camera fans should do is to see that your equipment is in good order for the busy snapshooting months ahead. Perhaps a bit of spring housecleaning is in order in the camera department. This doesn't mean tinkering with the internal mechanism, however. If there seems to be a bug in the mechanism somewhere, take the camera down to your photo dealer and let him advise you as to what steps to take.

Check over those accessories, too. See that your tripod is in good working order and that your sun shades and filters are clean and set to go for the busy season ahead. It would be an excellent time to check over and replace equipment that has become damaged or broken, too.

Why not plan your picture taking about this year so that you don't miss the highlights of spring? It is without question one of the most colorful seasons - be ready for it.

—John van Guilder

ing more than $12,000,000.

After all the bills were paid, a profit of $33,229,000 was left. But all of this didn't go to the owners. Most of it - $19,729,000 - was left in the business to take care of future needs and possible contingencies. The stockholders actually got only $13,500,000.

A brief analysis of these figures is illuminating. The concern's total profit was only 37 cents on each dollar of sales. For each dollar of profit, $470 was spent for wages. And, finally, for each dollar of profit, just about the same amount went to government in the form of taxes.

Breaking the figures down further, government received well over as much as was paid to the stockholders, and the workers received well over eleven times as much. Industries' owners are on the short end of the stick when the money is divided.

Say you saw it in the CITIZEN.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Fair-Deal Quandary

by Dr. Alfred P. Haake

EDITOR'S NOTE: Alfred P. Haake, Ph.D., Mayor of Park Ridge, Illinois, is a noted Economist, Business Consultant, Lecturer and Author.

Speaking to a convention of Wholesale Grocers of the United States recently, U. S. Attorney McGrath gave an interesting example of "Fair Deal" morality, although it was not so intended. What is "sausage for the goose" is not "sausage for the gander."

Said Mr McGrath: "The Justice Department seeks to protect the right of the American Consumer to purchase his food in an open market at prices established by free competition among sellers."

He went on, with increasing earnestness: "We seek also to protect the right of every American business man to enter that market and succeed or fail on his own merits, unhampered by restraints of monopolies."

At the conclusion of his address, Mr McGrath invited questions from his audience. At one of the tables there had been some discussion of potato prices and the six hundred million dollars the Government price-fixing program is said to have cost the tax-payers. One of the men stood up, with a quizzical look on his face.

"I think, Mr McGrath," he said, "that some of us are a little puzzled. Does your statement of intention about free markets and unrestricted competition as the primary means of determining prices, apply also to agricultural prices, on things we buy, and on which the Government maintains fixed prices?"

The Attorney-General's face reddened as the audience applauded the question. "I am not necessarily in favor of fixed agricultural prices," he snapped. "You'll have to take that up with Congress of the United States."

Surprisingly, a general laugh from the audience followed Mr McGrath's rejoinder. What was there about his answer that amused the wholesale grocers, men who have to buy agricultural products on which the Federal Government by request and approval of McGrath's boss, Harry Truman, maintains fixed prices and does not permit competition to determine those prices?

The questioner was heard quietly to remark to a neighbor at his table. "I guess it would not be polite to ask Mr McGrath whether that means that he and Mr Truman do not agree with the Congress or whether he is just speaking for himself and not for the Administration."

At that moment another man stood up. "I want to ask Mr McGrath whether his opposition to monopoly and in favor of competitive markets also applies to labor monopolies."

There was utter quiet as Mr McGrath replied: "If you imply that, the anti-trust laws apply to labor. I do not agree with you; but the answer to your question is the U. S. automobile accidents."

Male drivers in 1949 were involved in more than 90 percent of all answer to your question is the U. S. automobile accidents.

same; take it up with Congress." This time the audience did not laugh.

Of course, the Attorney-General, obeying his oath of office should enforce the anti-trust laws. And it is well that they be enforced, against all monopoly. But there is something incongruous about a situation in which one public official voices righteous indignation against monopoly and price-fixing and insists on free, competitive markets to determine prices, while his superior asks Congress to pass laws which prevent competition from fixing the prices of the agricultural products, and insists even on tax-payers' money to hold up the prices which those tax-payers have to pay finally for those products as food.

Mr McGrath is an earnest and apparently able young man. Too bad he cannot work under a single standard of morality - or that subsidy-hungry hands do not withdraw their insistence on maintained prices and relieve the Administration of the quandary in which it finds itself.

FRED JUDKINS OF UPTON ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY FOR LEGISLATURE

Fred Judkins of Upton announces that he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination to the Legislature in the June primaries for the district comprising the towns of Stow, Stoneham, Bethel, Gilsum, Greenwood, Hanover, Newry, Upton and Wilson's Mills.

This is Mr Judkins' first entry into state politics. He has served his town as selectman for four years, the last two years as chairman of the board. Last year he was instrumental in the town adopting a card system of valuation.

Mr Judkins is a graduate of Gould Academy and the University of Maine, 1928. He has had experience teaching high school at Sherman Mills and Livermore Falls.

In the service he had a job in Special Services giving information and education training to troops.

Mr Judkins owns and operates a small farm in Upton. In the winter he has worked on logging operations. His wife is the former Beatrice Hathaway from Bryant Pond. They have two children.

Fred has been active in local organizations. He served five years as member of Upton Grange No. 1. President of Upton P. T. A. and secretary-treasurer of Uptonagor Larger Parish Men's Club.

Mr Judkins feels that it is time that young men get into position to learn how their government is run and take an active part in planning the future of our state.

Mr Judkins is somewhat conservative and believes in a pay as you go policy for most all services to the people. He recognizes that highways, education and welfare are important problems that need careful study and planning. That they will be before the next legislature for consideration and action.

You are more than seven times as likely to be injured in an automobile accident between five and six in the evening as you are between six and seven in the morning.

Male drivers in 1949 were involved in more than 90 percent of all answer to your question is the U. S. automobile accidents.

ANSWER TO LAST WEEK'S PUZZLE:

FOUR TIPS FROM AN AD MAN
How NOT to make good:
Take a cocktail at lunch, two before dinner. Show your sophistication by doing some two-faced drinking into the night. Come in next morning and discuss the "night before" with the boys. . . . Hope to become a Man of Dilation, so you can influence ambitious young fellows to drink. . . .
How TO make good:
Leave the hard stuff alone and go easy on the milk. You don't have to be on the defensive about not drinking and your hangover isn't funny. . . .
If your ideas need elevating, associate with people of character, both in and out of books. John Orr Young in Printers' Ink.
